ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The author offers praise and thanks to Allah SWT for His abundant mercy and grace, which have enabled the author to complete this thesis titled “The Use of American English Expressions in Daily Conversations Among Female Students at Diponegoro University” as a requirement for completing the bachelor’s degree in English literature at the Faculty of Humanities, Diponegoro University.

I would like to express my sincerest gratitude to my thesis supervisor, Dr. Arido Laksono, S.S., M.Hum., for his guidance, patience, support, and encouragement throughout the completion of this thesis. Even though arranging meetings and consultations was often challenging, every supervision session was always enjoyable and meaningful. Through his direction and motivation, I was able to go through the thesis process smoothly and finally complete this thesis successfully. Throughout the thesis writing process, from data collection, analysis, and writing to other stages, the author encountered various individuals who played a significant role in the success of this work. With this opportunity, the author would like to express gratitude to:

1. Prof. Dr. Alamsyah, S.S., M.Hum., as the Dean of the Faculty of Humanities, Diponegoro University.
2. Dr. Oktiva Herry Chandra, M.Hum., as the Head of the English Department.
3. All lecturers of English Literature who have shared their knowledge, experiences, guidance, and insights throughout the author’s years of study.

4. The author's beloved parents (Bapak and Ibu) and family: Mbak Gerri, Mas Age, Mbak Saras, our little Djani, and the big family in Yogyakarta, for their endless love, prayers, support, patience, and encouragement throughout the author's academic journey.
5. The author's thesis supervision friends, Novi, Ghea, and Vania, who always supported and encouraged one another during the thesis process and accompanied each other during supervision meetings.
6. The author's college friends since the first semester in the "bich group": Nanda, Diva, Rida, Alicia, Mely, and Novi, who have accompanied the author since the very beginning when the author did not know anyone in the English Literature program. Thank you for staying together through countless classes, assignments, and various campus struggles. Even though everyone comes from different regions and backgrounds, the author hopes that someday all of us can meet again in our best versions.
7. The author's high school friends (rumpy family), Dayana, Iyus, Andin, Avilla, Aura, Nashia, Caca, and Nasywa who continuously supported and encouraged one another during the process of completing final assignments and thesis work so that everyone could graduate together.
8. The author's junior high school friends, Dila, Farah, Abel, and Regina, who always brought laughter, encouragement, and happiness during difficult times through unforgettable hangouts and precious moments together.

9. The author's elementary school friends, Deana, Nyndita, and Jazzy, who have stayed together and maintained the friendship from the age of nine until now, when all of us are almost graduating from university.
10. Friends from PSM Undip, Dila, Kolya, Frida, Talitha, and Bagus, who accompanied and colored the author's university life from the beginning semester until now and continue to maintain close relationships and meaningful memories together.
11. The author's KKN friends, Blessty, Kayla, Tita, Aqilla, Ara, Khansa, Irma, Tiara, Risla, and Amel, who completed one of the most memorable chapters of the author's seventh semester. Living together in one house and building relationships with students from various faculties gave the author valuable experiences, lessons, and unforgettable memories.
12. The author would also like to express sincere gratitude to all participants who willingly participated in this research and generously took their time to share their experiences, opinions, and daily conversations for the purpose of this study. Without their willingness, openness, cooperation, and valuable contributions, this thesis would not have been completed successfully. The author truly appreciates the time, energy, and effort they dedicated despite their own busy schedules. Their participation played a significant role in helping the author collect meaningful data and gain deeper insights related to this research topic.

13. Everyone else who contributed directly or indirectly to the completion of this thesis and whose names cannot be mentioned one by one.

14. Lastly, the author would like to thank herself for surviving and enduring four years in the English Literature program. All the laughter, tears, struggles, happiness, disappointments, and unforgettable memories throughout those years are truly priceless. Thank you for continuing to move forward despite all the challenges and difficult moments. You did well, and finally, you made it to the end of this journey.

The author acknowledges that this thesis is far from perfect. Therefore, should any errors or shortcomings arise that invite criticism and suggestions from various parties, the author will gladly accept them with open arms as material for future improvements. Nevertheless, the author hopes that this work will be of benefit, both theoretically and practically, to anyone who reads it.
