

ABSTRACT

This thesis is entitled Analysis of the Application of Knowledge Management in the Efforts to Develop Library Automation (Case Study of the IT Sub Division in the Archives and Blora Regional Library). The purpose of this study was to determine the process of applying knowledge management in the development of library automation carried out by the Archive and Library Office of Blora Regency, especially in the IT sub-section. The design of this study uses a qualitative case study method by collecting data through interviews, observations, and documentation that aims to find out the facts in real problems that exist in the Blora District Archives and Library Office. Data analysis using the reduction method is recording data obtained in the field then verified to determine the relevant data to support the sustainability of the research conducted. The results of this study were from staff in the Archives and Library Office of Blora Regency in managing library automation. It can be concluded that there are benefits in applying knowledge management in the Blora District Archives and Library Office. Evidenced by the development of the appearance of the website owned by the Blora Regency Archive and Library Office becomes more interesting than before.

Keywords: knowledge management, Library Automation.